ACADEMIC ENGLISH

Can you tick all the following Boxes?

- I am able to read and comprehend most English texts
- I have a high level of grammatical competence in writing and speaking
- I have a strong command of vocabulary and functional language
- I can follow and understand lectures in English.

IS YOUR ACADEMIC ENGLISH UP TO SCRATCH?

If you are unable to tick all the boxes on the left and you want to be successful in your GCSEs, A levels, International Baccalaureate IB, undergraduate or post-graduate course then you need a total immersion English language course that European Homestay can offer you.

In addition to improving your knowledge and comprehension of the English language, an Academic English course can help you more specifically to improve your presentations, your technique in reading academic material, writing notes in lessons, reports, essays, papers and articles. Your communication with teachers and peers will also be enhanced.

This type of course will help you to improve your vocabulary and subject knowledge for your specialised academic subject. We cover subjects such as literature, science, business studies, economics, history, classics, psychology and many more.

An Academic English course can assist you in writing your essays and improving your knowledge of subject matter in areas that you feel you need help in.

ARE YOU PLANNING ON ATTENDING BOARDING SCHOOL?

If you are planning on attending boarding school to do your GCSEs, Advanced A levels or the International Baccalaureate IB then the Academic English course is what you require.

If you want to attend an English speaking university to do an undergraduate or post-graduate course then you will need a high standard of academic skills.

By improving your academic English you will not only be improving your fluency in the language but you will be improving your chances of being more successful in classes that will be conducted completely in English.

In further education students are not only expected to read copious amounts of academic texts in English and fully comprehend lectures given in English, but they also need to be analytically critical about the information that they have read and heard.

Furthermore students at all levels will need to express their understandings and critiques of ideas through speaking and writing in English.
